JHINGANS JOTTINGS

Hi

The next issue will be on August 9, 2001 and not on August 2, 2001 due to our being away to Tokyo from July 30 to August 8, 2001 for PHILANIPPON Japan World Stamp Exhibition 2001. Urgent messages may be sent to chief@stampsfindia.net during this period. Those of you who shall be at Tokyo may ask at India Post Booth at the exhibition for our whereabouts.

Dr. Kenneth Robbins of USA, well known for his collections of Indian Princely States that go way beyond philately, has very kindly consented to allow us to publish several of his writings on our website. We will keep you informed thru links in this newsletter as and when the web version of an article is ready and posted.

Ashok Kumar Bayanwala of Ahmedabad must be congratulated and supported for taking up the major task to document the Modern Postal History of India from 1947 to 1997 in a series of articles published in the monthly 'GPA News' since April 2001 issue. We have obtained his permission to not only publish these on our web site, but also to get involved in jointly evolving, enhancing, expanding, editing, and revising this magnum opus for the web version. We ask you to read this by clicking on the link <http://www.stampsofindia.com/Content/Features/a511.htm> and let us have your ideas on further improvements. All illustrations shall soon be in color.

'Indian Postal History 1947-1997' presents the information in a chronological manner like a reference book. About one year has been covered with the part 4 published in July 2001, because the author wishes to cover the classic part of India's post-independence period, 1947 to 1957, in detail, as a matter of policy. The year 1957 for several reasons is a natural choice, for one, the introduction of decimal currency in the country. Our readers are also invited to contribute topics that have escaped coverage as well as additional information on the topics already published.

Until next week, please enjoy the rest of the newsletter.

- M&SJ

NEWS & ANNOUNCEMENTS

NEW STAMPS RELEASED

Ram Vilas Paswan, Minister of Communications released a commemorative postage stamp on Chandragupta Maurya in the denomination of Rs.4 at Kanpur on July 21, 2001.

Chandragupta Maurya stands out as one among the most colorful personalities of Indian history. He was a far-sighted ruler, who not only expanded his territories, but also established a well-organized administrative system and gave it a sound financial base, thus laying the foundation for an enduring empire. Chandragupta Maurya had set a high ideal and is stated to have believed that his happiness lay in the happiness of his subjects and that in their troubles lay his troubles. Chandragupta's reign lasted for about 25 years. According to Jain tradition, he adopted Jainism, having been influenced by the saint Bhadrabahu. He is believed to have abdicated the throne in favor of his son Bindusara and pursued a spiritual life thereafter.

A commemorative postage stamp on Jhalkari Bai, in the denomination of Rs.4, was released by Ram Vilas Paswan, Minister of Communications at a function in Lucknow on July 22, 2001. The Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister, Rajnath Singh was the chief guest at the function.

The saga of Jhalkari Bai is illustrative of the seriousness of discontent among the common people against the colonial dominance and the extent of popular participation in the struggle. She was a courageous woman who came from a humble background and played a valiant role in the Jhansi theatre of the revolt of 1857. She is living memory in the folklore of the Bundelkhand region (which was part of the erstwhile state of Jhansi) even today. Jhalkari Bai bore an uncanny resemblance to Rani Lakshmi Bai, Queen of Jhansi, because of which the Queen took a special liking to her and inducted her into the women's wing of her army.

When discontent against the British policies was brewing, the people of Jhansi rallied around the Queen and resolved to take up arms to uphold the independence of their state. In 1858, there were several attacks on the Jhansi fort by the British and their native allies. Though the recorded history does not reveal much about the antecedents or heroic exploits of Jhalkari Bai, the ever-loyal Jhalkari Bai must have been a pillar of strength for the queen in those trying times. It is said that when the fall of the fortress became imminent, Jhalkari Bai and some generals convinced Lakshmi Bai to escape quietly with a handful of supporters. In a ploy to deceive the British, Jhalkari dressed up like the Rani and took command of the army. The British found out the truth but it was too late, as the Queen had covered a considerable distance by then. Though Jhalkari Bai was forced to surrender, it is believed that the British military officers, who were impressed by her loyalty, courage and fighting prowess treated her with respect and freed her.

The First Day Cover along with the information sheet will be available for sale at all Philatelic Bureaus, Philatelic Counters, and at selected Post Offices all over the country.

NOTES ON NEW SPECIAL DEFINITIVE SERIES

Special definitive series in 25-paisa denomination were first issued with the motifs of Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Nehru in 1976 and the Mahatma Gandhi series continued till 2000 in the 100-paisa denomination. With the introduction of the new definitive series on Natural Heritage in the year 2000, India Post also issued a new series of three Special Definitive Stamps.

The Special Definitive Stamps are issued in sheets of 10 x 10 = 100 stamps per sheet. The Stamps are printed by photogravure process on multiple Ashoka Capital watermarked paper by India Security Press, Nashik Road. The normal position for watermark is upright. The printed sheet contains four panes that are cut after printing to make issued sheets. Serial numbers, date, month & year of printing have been found on this stamp till date. The marginal inscriptions on a sheet contain the name of the press in Hindi & English and the cylinder number in one line. Every denomination is assigned a letter that precedes the cylinder number.

The first Stamp in this series was issued on October 31, 2000 on the Iron man of India, Sardar Vallabhai Patel in the denomination of Rs. 2. It is a vertical design in Grey colour. "J" is the letter assigned for this denomination. The marginal inscription is "I.S.P. Nashik-Road J1", in capital letters and has been seen on the left margin of the sheet followed by "J2" on the left and right of the sheet. "J3" on the left and right of the sheet. The left inscription of "J4" has a colour band on top of the sheet printed in gray colour. "J4" is also seen on the right side. "J5" is also seen with the inscription on the left and right of the sheet. The right inscription of "J5" also has a sheet number 029173 on the top right hand corner. The left inscription of "J7" has been seen with four different printing dates, those are .5.II.01, .6.II.01 and 14.III.01, .3.V.01. "J7" on the left side has the sheet number 415841 printed, and "J7" is also seen on the right side. "J8" is also seen with the sheet number 252627 on the left side, and it is also seen on the right side.

The second Stamp in the Special Definitive Series was issued on January 23, 2001 on the founder of the Indian National Army in Singapore Netaji Subash Chandra Bose in the denomination of Rs. 1. It is a vertical design in Orange Brown colour. "F" is the letter assigned for this denomination. The marginal inscription is "I.S.P. Nashik-Road F2", in capital letters and has been seen on the left margin of the sheet followed by "F3" also seen on the left, margin of the sheet. Sheet Number "F4" has been sighted with the left inscription sheet number 101248 and date of printing as 24.I.01, another "F4" sheet has been sight without the date of printing or sheet number.

The third Stamp in the Special Definitive Series was issued on April 14, 2001 on Dr. B.R. Ambedkar in the denomination of Rs. 3. It is a vertical design in Greenish Grey colour. "A" is the letter assigned for this denomination. The marginal inscription is "I.S.P. Nashik-Road A1", in capital letters and has been seen on the right margin of the sheet followed by "A3" seen on the left and right margin of the sheet.

Readers having more information on marginal inscriptions and cylinder numbers of any denomination are requested to contribute.

STANLEY GIBBONS ANNOUNCES DIGITAL CATALOGUES

Stanley Gibbons plans to release a major series of 'bespoke' digital stamp catalogues, which the company sees as a publishing innovation for the entire Stanley Gibbons catalogue publishing operation.

Their 'one country' digital catalogues will mean that philatelists no longer will have to buy a bulky catalogue containing some information they have little use for. In the future, collectors will be able to buy 'Malta', 'Argentina', 'Germany', 'Canada' or any other country they want as individual volumes.

"It's all about increasing choice and giving value for money," says SG production manager David Hardy, "The new digital 'one country' catalogue range will be both flexible and functional."

Final details are yet to be confirmed, but the new 'one country' series is expected to be launched with 'Australia' sometime in late August 2001. Because the Australia catalogue is one of the largest in the new series, the cover price will be around £12.95, and it's expected that other volumes will retail for as little as £8.95. Australia will be followed by Canada, New Zealand, Cyprus, Malta and Gibraltar.

The format of the new 'one catalogue' series is also innovative and exciting. Each set of pages will be printed on high quality cartridge paper and will be attractively housed in a specially designed four ring binder.

Individual volumes will come complete with general information pages, other vital philatelic information, and discount coupons for the other catalogues in the series.

Stanley Gibbons is keen to stress that the regular production of their standard printed catalogues will continue for the foreseeable future.

RESEARCH NOTES

INDIA USED ABROAD

Our reader, Samuel W. Mangiameli of Santa Monica, California, USA wrote: " I know that stamps and cover of India "used abroad" is a popular area within Indian philately, given the fact that the Indian PO was the "mother" to so many different countries postal systems and Indian military men served in so many countries. There are several excellent sites covering this subject on the net, however, I'd like to suggest a regular column in which members could show examples, explore the subject, etc. There are even Indian covers used in Japan. I know because I missed acquiring one at an auction.

We would like to respond by saying that Our Research Coordinator and we were already working on serializing on 'India Used Abroad' among other subjects. 'Research Notes' is our regular column, and we invite all readers to contribute on this and any other subjects. Illustration are also welcome, these will be posted on the website (and NOT delivered in your mail box as a part of this newsletter) and a link provided herein.

<Send in your views for publication here>

AVINASH B. JAGTAP, BINNINGEN (SWITZERLAND) 21 JULY 2001 15:35

In the recent Newsletter No. 45 (19 July 2001) Mr. Mansoor Bolar has expressed his views on the revised Indian postal charges. I also find it ridiculous that a sender of a letter has to pay double the amount if his (or her) letter should weigh more than standard 20 g. I also agree with the proposal of Mr. Bolar that there should be "smaller slabs" for the extra postage to be paid for over-weight letters. One Rupee for every extra 5 grams. But I also think that for the man at the counter it is very easy to decide if a letter is within 20 g or more and he is not obliged to weight every increase of 5 gms which will determine the ultimate postage. Taking into consideration the volume of letters which the post office has to handle India Post is undoubtedly going to save much work and time of the postal worker who weighs letters and I doubt if balances in post offices are that accurate to determine every extra 5 gms!

AKHILESH ARKA

I have come across some issues of stamps released at the end of 1999 and beginning of 2000, where the paper & the colors the stamps are majorly different. All these stamps were printed by India Security Press. The stamps are: 1) UPU 4 values (1999) 2) Sri Satya Sai water supply project (1999) 3) The Hindustan Times (1999) 4) Family Planning Association of India (1999) 5) Jesus Christ (1999) 6) Tabo Monastery (1999) 7) Millennium Sunrise (2000) 8) 50 years of Republic of India- Gallantry Awardees (2000) 9) Endangered Species-Turtles (2000)

I came to know that the press in Nasik was shut for some time due to technical problems and after the press was re-started, the above stamps were printed. When this (re) printing happened, all the stamps were printed on different paper. Also the ink is glossy and bright. Does this classify as reprinting of commemorative stamps?

PREM MOHAN

Thank you for the Companion Newsletter of July 19. As a very active philatelist till mid eighties, I felt romantic about the world of stamps again. It makes a very nice reading. I would like to be on the subscription list. I would like to read it regularly.

I have a huge and reasonably organized collection of India, USA, Australia, theme of children, fdc and folders, special place cancellations etc. but mostly up to the beginning of 1980. It is located at my Calcutta residence, which I visit at intervals. Some is here in Jaipur. I have a huge stock of world stamps too. I would like to sell a part and exchange for my favorite theme or countries. I should be grateful to receive offers and suggested from any interested philatelist.
