JHINGANS JOTTINGS

Hi

We were expecting a better response, in numbers, to what we had written in this space in the previous issue. Surprised, we read the jottings carefully and realized that we may not have been very clear in our call to write back immediately. Will YOU please do it now? Do ask, add, give your views and suggestions on the idea of PHILASENSEX, and other features you would like to see in this digital weekly. And do it now.

Until next week, please enjoy the rest of the newsletter.

- M&SJ

Our thanks to the Contributors and Sources to this issue: Akshay Borad, Mansoor B, K M Singh, Manohar Lal, and Anil Suri, Madhukar Deogawanka, and Ashish Talwar

We invite your inputs, please email to writeback@stampsofindia.com

AUDITOR GENERAL'S REPORT ON INDIA POST

The Comptroller and Auditor General of India as the supreme audit institution of India conducts regulatory as well as performance audits and assists the state and central institutions on their accounts and accountability. The Performance audit Report # 1 of 2007 tabled in Parliament recently is divided in three chapters where the first chapter entirely focuses on the mail management.

Mail management involves mail collection, sorting, transmission and delivery of letters and other articles and is aimed at ensuring early delivery of mail, efficient utilisation of the resources and improved customer services. In view of the large volume of incoming and outgoing mail, efficient management of mail is one of the most important tasks of the Department of Posts (DoP). India has the largest postal network in the world with 155,516 post offices, out of which 125,148 post offices are situated in rural areas.

Performance audit of Mail Management in DoP was conducted during April to August 2006, covering the period 2001-2002 to 2005-06. Twenty one out of 22 postal circles were reviewed in audit. In each of the circles, two Head Post Offices (HPOs) and seven sub offices (SOs), including two rural SOs, under each HPO were selected randomly for the purpose of audit.

Some of the major deficiencies observed by Audit in respect of mail management were as follows:

Mail traffic registered a decline of nearly 50 per cent during last five years due to increased competition from private couriers and other modes of communication especially the value added services in telecom sector. Despite this, DoP failed to improve its operational efficiency, reduce staff costs and modernize its operations to render better services to the customer.

DoP continued to incur losses during last five years and 16 out of the 20 postal services continued to sustain losses over the years. The net loss for the year ending 31 March 2006 was Rs 120.771 billion (US$ 300 million approximately).

According to National Test Letter Run conducted by the department, only 55 per cent of mail was delivered within the prescribed norms for delivery.

The projects for computerization of Head Records Offices, Computerized Registration Centers and Transit Mail Offices have fallen behind schedule and the computers installed were not being used for faster processing of mail and other articles in handling offices. Hardware worth Rs 67.2 million remained idle due to inadequate infrastructure, non-preparation of site, etc.

Department's efforts to modernize and mechanize mail sorting operations at Chennai and Mumbai to improve operational efficiency through introduction of Automatic Mail Processing machines and Culler-Facer-Cancellor machines also did not succeed despite investment of Rs 602.5 million due to its failure to standardize mail and ensure adequate public awareness about the advantages of using standard postal stationery. As a result, the Automatic Mail Processing machines are being underutilized to the extent of 66.39 per cent to 71.78 per cent and Culler-Facer-Cancellor machines to the extent of 93.20 per cent to 98.54 per cent. Similar projects for introducing Automatic Mail Processing Centers at a total cost of Rs 842.7 million at Delhi and Kolkata have been delayed due to deficient project management.

Book Now Pay Later facility was allowed to customers without taking advance deposits from them which resulted in accumulation of outstanding dues of Rs 13.6 million in 12 Head Post Offices test checked.

Business Post facility was extended to customers without taking advance which resulted in accumulation of outstanding dues of Rs 20.2 millions in eight Head Post Offices test checked.

Terminal dues amounting to Rs 28.4 million were pending against 23 countries from 1999 to 2004.

Agreement was signed with United Arab Emirates without taking into account weight and distance element which resulted in loss of Rs 91.5 million during the period February 2002 to December 2002.

The department also did not effectively monitor settlement of complaints to improve customer satisfaction.

SHIVA FAMILY ON CZECH STAMP

Czech Republic issued a stamp on February 21, 2007 featuring Art of India from the Collections of the National Gallery at Zbraslav Castle of the Náprstek (National) Museum of Asian, African and American Cultures. The collection of the National Gallery is exhibited in six locations in the Czech capital, Prague and the Zbraslav Castle houses the non-European art collection of the National Gallery.

The stamp in the denomination of 24 Koruny depicts a 19th Century Glass Painting of Indian Gods - Shiva, Parvati and Ganes. Martin Srb engraved the design printed in sheets of 4 by recess process from flat plate in black combined with offset.

Under-painting on glass became popular in India in the 19th century. These paintings feature either religious or courtly themes. They show both various Hindu gods and portraits of rulers, courtiers or courtesans. The painting technique differs from painting on paper or wood in that it begins with details which are next covered with larger areas of tempera. The painting includes glossy details made of a metal sheet fixed to the back side of the painting in order to show through and imitate e.g. jewels. Most paintings are of a small size, the theme covers the whole painting. The painting texture is finished with dots and lines of rich and lively colors. The technique of painting on glass requires a good workmanship. In India the paintings used to be hung on walls especially by middle-class families.

READERS FORUM

<Dear Reader, Your feedback is important to us as it helps evolve the newsletter. Please send us have your thoughts and suggestions.>

F H MAGRA

You are doing a commendable service. It is no joke collecting, compiling and sending newsletter week after week without a penny earned. Thank you for your gratis services!!

I am sure you or someone else can share anecdotes, every week, about stamps issued, how the idea conceptualized or a brief history or titbits about stamps. This will make interesting reading and also entice younger generation to collect stamp for hobby or pleasure.

PRADEEP KUMAR AGRAWAL

Today after reading the idea of Mr P R Krishnan from Coimbatore I must say that the proposal suggested by him (if took place) will bring revolution in Indian Philately .

Lots of people who don't know Philately will know the same through the philsensex and may join the philately community.

It will also provide a platform for the Philatelist to buy/sell the items at a correct market price.

In brief I will only say that the idea of Mr Krishnan is fantastic and hope his efforts & your association it will take the right shape in near future. I will be glad if any assistance or help will be needed from me or in straight way I will also like to join this program for the promotion of Indian Philately.
